

CHICAGO HORSE MARKET

Reported by F. J. Berry & Co., Union Stock Yards, For Week Ending Tuesday, April 20, 1897.

There has been a lively demand for all horses of good quality during the past two weeks, but receipts have been exceedingly heavy, causing a slight decline in value, though at present the market is firm at nearly top prices of the season. Smooth 1300 to 1400 lb. chunks and choice drivers are selling to best advantage, followed by heavy drafters of good quality. All horses adapted to farm use are ready sale at very satisfactory prices. There is also a fair demand for southern chunks at moderate prices.

We quote:

Expressors and heavy drafters	$75 to $100
1150 to 1400 pound chunks	60 to 80
850 to 1100 pound chunks	25 to 40
Coaches and fast road horses	50 to 75
Ordinary drivers, 500 and upwards	25 to 40

These prices are for sound horses, five to eight years old, well broken and in good flesh. Plain, blemished and green stock sells at a discount.

Sidney Suggs says he don't care what estimate the people put on the valor of a man who builds a storm house, he wants it distinctly understood that he has the best one on the hill. That he did not build it as a cooler for milk or vegetables, he built it to put his wife and children in. The editor has an invitation to take refuge there when the elements are turbulent, and he said to his credit that he has got sense enough to avail himself of the generous invitation.—Berwyn Messenger.

TO AN CONCERNED.

Sovereign C. C. Turner, chairman of Sovereign Managers W. O. W., Omaha, Neb., will visit Ardmore on the 20th of April to deliver a public address to the citizens of Ardmore and vicinity on the subject of Woodcraft, and on that day only applicants will be admitted to membership for $3 entrance fee. Any one desiring membership on that date at the reduced rate will apply to Dr. Bogue, camp physician, T. C. Bridgman, clerk, or any member of our camp for blanks, etc.

Come and Be Cured

I now take pleasure in presenting and introducing one of the worst morphine habits in our section, after a treatment of only seven days. To those who are afflicted I will say, this person was taking a bottle of morphine every two days, and he will assure you that he has not taken an opiate of any description since he was put on my treatment. Neither has he suffered in health a minute. His name for the present is withheld, but at the completion of the treatment will be given to the public together with a full history of the case. I ask you to call on me and be convinced that I can do as much for you. When requested, this matter is strictly confidential. Address

SOUTHWEST BREEZES.

It is curious that a thing which will use a man a woman's friendship won't use him her love.

MODERN NURSES.

It is hoped that the profession of nursing will now at least find its level, the best type of modern nurse making no claim to a higher vocation than the teacher, but wishing to be given her proper position as a skilled assistant in serious illness.

Now, on the contrary, it is frequently hinted that the nursing young woman is a compound of vanity, frivolity and incompetence—such as a damsel who "cheerfully announced that, as her father was blind and her mother paralyzed, it was very dull at home, and so she was going to be a hospital nurse."

The daily or visiting nurse is a recent development of modern nursing and meets the needs of many people who find it inconvenient to have a nurse stopping in the house and requiring more or less attention from servants perhaps already overtaxed. The visiting nurse comes in for an hour or so every day to perform those services for which her skill is needed.

A change of tone has been remarked lately in current allusions to nurses and the nursing profession. For some years after Mrs. Gamp ceased to be the popular type her successor was alluded to as if she were a perfect being made up of cleverness and unselfishness, a sort of "human angel with a cast-iron back," into whose hands it was a recognized duty to surrender our nearest and dearest in times of sickness.

Ibsen's historical drama, "Emperor and Galileus," was originally written in ten acts, and although it was cut down to six by the managers of the Leipzig Theater, it still occupied four and a half hours in playing.

Wheat 80 cents per bushel.
